New Construction Mold... Are You Covered?

Picture this, you have just completed building someone's dream home. Everybody is happy and excited. You can actually catch the gleam in the person's eyes. The check has been signed, sealed and just about to be handed over. The final walkthrough is almost over when you hear the dreaded words. "Is that mold?"

The proverbial shoe has just hit the ground. There is a long pause and your heart skips a beat. You aren't quite sure what to say. If you say yes, then sale is at a standstill. If you say no, then you set yourself up for a potentially costly lawsuit.

In-door Air Quality Consultants can make sure you are covered from the day one. No more worries about those small spots that seem to plague that freshly cut lumber. No more hassles with wood that used to be brown, but now has that green tint to it. No more lawyers or lawsuits due to mold.

With our new construction treatment plan, all you have to worry about is creating that master piece your clients have dreamed about. We'll take care of the rest. We can treat, kill and prevent mold growth during construction without disruption.

Our process is proven, EPA registered, and come with an 8 year warranty. The cost is nominal compared to costly lawsuits. And when the work is completed, not only do you get the 8 warranty card, but also a certificate of completion to pass on to your clients.

So the next time you get the dreaded question, will you be covered for MOLD?
