

Mold Remediation Technician

A mold remediation crew member is a highly trained technician performing a hazardous job very few will volunteers for. The protection and safety of the mold technician must be our main goal second only to properly treating the house or building.

All crew members must be provided with special suits, gloves, and respirators designed specifically for each particular remediation project. Different situations require different PPE (personal protection equipment).

Communication is limited with full faced mask and sometimes require electronic devices for technicians to communicate. Locators and special lighting is also a must for each crew member.

So don't expect anything less than a "NASA CREW LOOKING FOR ET" type of an appearance from our crew. Sit back and enjoy the show...let the neighbors think what they like!
